

Getting to the Museum

General

The Hunt Museum is located on Rutland Street, 2 to 3 minutes walk from Limerick's City Centre.

Our Eircode is V94 EV8A.

The Hunt Museum on Google Maps.

The Hunt Museum on Open Street Map.

Potential hazards nearby

Traffic crossing

If approaching from O'Connell Street, between the Hunt Museum and the Arthur's Quay Shopping Centre, there is a set of pedestrian crossings, with an island in the middle. This island is sloped with an uneven surface which can present a tripping hazard. After it has rained, water sometimes accumulates in the centre of the island.

In addition, there are three crossings near to one another whose audible pedestrian signals can be hard to distinguish from one another.

There is a photograph of time on the next page of these pedestrian crossings and island.

A screenshot of the island from Google Maps.

Uneven footpath

The footpath on Rutland Street, on which the Museum is located, is uneven and has dips and upward slopes in places. This can present a tripping hazard for some.

Cobblestones

Our courtyard also has medium-sized cobblestones, which may provide some difficulty for customers with mobility aids.

Public Transport

Colbert Station

We are a 15-minute walk from Limerick's Colbert train and bus station (Eircode: V94 H2PP). Use this link for more information: Colbert train and bus station.

Map from OpenStreetMap.org.

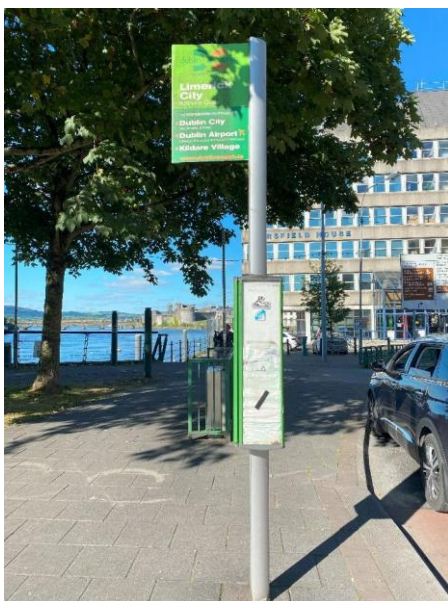

See below links for train and bus information:

- Irish Rail train information
- Bus Éireann bus information

Arthur's Quay Bus Stop

The nearest bus stop is at Arthur's Quay, beside the park. It is located 3 minutes walk away from the Museum. The Big Green Bus Route (Dublin Coach) 300 services this stop, providing an easy connection for visitors coming from or going to Dublin, Ennis, Bunratty, Adare, Killarney and Tralee. See the Dublin Coach website for more information: 300 Bus Stop at Arthur's Quay.

The Museum is to the right of this bus stop. When exiting the bus, follow the footpath around two corners past Sarsfield House and you will arrive at the Museum.

From Other Attractions

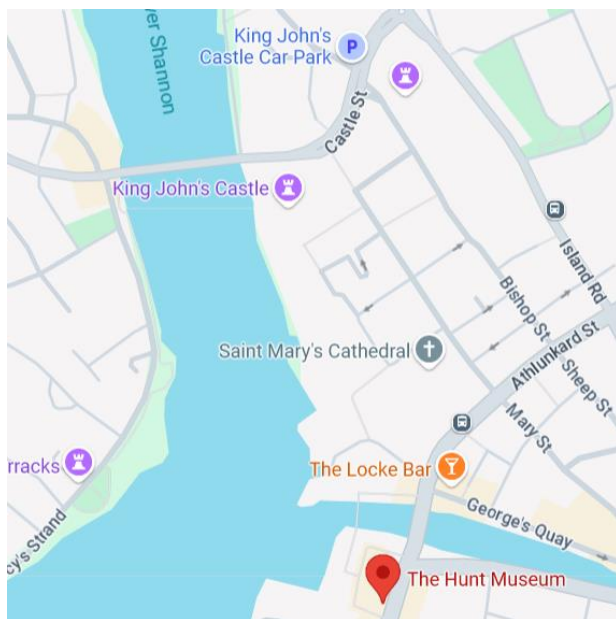

We are 500m from King John's Castle (Eircode: V94 FX25) and 350m from St. Mary's Cathedral (Eircode: V94 E068).

Image Above: Glass fronted entrance to King John's Castle.

Image Above: Saint Mary's Cathedral which is located opposite the Potato Market

Map from Google Maps highlighting the position of Saint Mary's Cathedral and King John's Castle in relation to the Hunt Museum.

Parking

On-site disability parking

The Museum offers two parking spaces for visitors with a disability. Call us on 061 312 833 for directions and to check availability.

General parking nearby

No general parking is available at the Museum. There are multiple public car parks nearby, including:

1. Arthurs Quay Shopping Centre car park (Eircode: V94 XF67), which has spaces for disabled drivers. See their website for more information: Arthurs Quay Car Park.

There is photograph of the vehicle entrance to Arthur's Quay Car Park on the next page.

2. The Potato Market Car Park, located across the Abbey River from the Hunt Museum.

Use the white footbridge connecting this carpark with the Museum Garden (at the rear of the museum). See the following webpage for more information: Potato Market Car Park.

This is a view of the white footbridge connecting the Potato Market with the Hunt Museum Garden.

Map from OpenStreetMap.org.